

10 second pitch

The Business Environmental Resource Center, commonly known as BERC, provides new and existing businesses with free and confidential assistance regarding permits, regulations, sustainability, and opportunities for success.

30 second pitch

The Business Environmental Resource Center, commonly known as BERC, is a free and confidential business resource tool to help simplify regulatory and permitting processes. If a potential or new business is uncertain which permits are required for their particular industry, they can contact us and we will guide them through the process to ensure that those requirements are met. If an established business is uncertain as to their level of regulatory compliance, they can contact BERC without fear of enforcement in order to reach an acceptable level of compliance according to applicable local, state and federal laws.
